Brief description of Event:

The Department of Civil Engineering, Sandip University, successfully conducted a Community Engagement Project at Anath Balakashram (Balsadan), Nashik , provided students with an opportunity to interact with girl children aged 7–21 years and understand their educational, social, and developmental needs..

Through meaningful interactions and field-level engagement, our students gained valuable insights into the challenges faced by them and the important role of engineers in creating sustainable solutions.

Objective of the Event:

- To understand the educational, social, and developmental needs of girl children in the age group of 7–21 years.
- To interact with the girls and create a friendly and supportive environment for knowledge sharing and engagement.
- To understand the challenges faced by the children in their education, career development, and daily life.
- To promote education, confidence, self-development, and career awareness among the girls.

Outcome of the Event:

- Students gained first-hand understanding of the social and educational needs of girl children residing in the Ashram.
- The interaction helped develop empathy, compassion, and social responsibility among students.
- Students enhanced their communication, teamwork, leadership, and interpersonal skills through direct interaction.
- The visit provided an opportunity to encourage the girls towards education, higher studies, career planning, and self-confidence.
