Event Report

Event Name: World International Day of Justice

Date of the Event: 17th July 2025

Duration of the Event: 11:00 AM to 12:00 P.M.

Venue: ‘S’ Building Seminar Hall

Name of the Event Coordinator: Mrs Rakhee Poonawalla & Mr Akash Baid.

Objective of the Program:

The program aimed to educate students about war crimes and genocide, offering them a space to share their perspectives and enhance their grasp of international criminal law. A core goal was to underscore the critical role of legal education in fostering justice and accountability. Essentially, it provided law students with a forum to express their views on these grave issues and to delve into the function of international law in confronting such atrocities.

Outline of the Program:

Students made short presentations, participated in open discussions, and engaged in moderated debates. Many students highlighted the need for stronger international mechanisms to ensure accountability. Some expressed concern over the lack of universal jurisdiction and political barriers to justice. There was consensus on the value of education and advocacy in preventing future crimes against humanity.

A short documentary was shown illustrating real-life cases of war crimes and genocide, focusing on the impact on victims and the struggle for justice. The documentary prompted a reflective discussion on the human cost of war crimes.

Participants:

The event saw an attendance of around 80 students along with faculty members.

Outcomes:

This program, designed with several key objectives, would undoubtedly lead to a variety of meaningful results for the law students involved, and could even have a wider societal influence. It significantly boosted awareness and a critical understanding of war crimes and genocide.

Participants gained empowered platforms for expression and dialogue, fostering their ability to discuss and engage with these crucial topics. The program also led to a profound understanding of International Criminal Law (ICL), equipping students with in-depth knowledge of this complex field. Crucially, it highlighted the immense importance of legal education in promoting justice and accountability, underscoring the vital role lawyers play in these critical areas.

Conclusion:

In essence, the program would move beyond mere information dissemination to transform students into informed, engaged, and ethically responsible actors capable of contributing meaningfully to the global efforts to prevent and respond to war crimes and genocide, ultimately promoting a culture of justice and accountability.
