The Department of Biological Sciences organized an alumni interaction session with Ms. Bhagyashree Patil, an alumna of the M.Sc. Life Science program. Ms. Patil is currently working at Cisco Pvt. Ltd., Bangalore. The session aimed to bridge the gap between academic learning and industry expectations by providing students with insights into real-world applications of their studies and potential career paths after completing their post graduation.

During the session, Ms. Bhagyashree Patil shared her journey from being a student of life sciences to entering the corporate sector. She spoke about the various challenges she faced, the skills she acquired during her academic years, and how she adapted to the dynamic work environment at Cisco. She emphasized the importance of developing soft skills, staying updated with current technologies, and being open to interdisciplinary roles. Her talk encouraged students to explore opportunities beyond traditional research roles and to consider careers in industry, data analysis, project management, and other emerging fields.

The interaction was highly engaging and included a Q&A session, where students actively participated by asking questions related to career planning, resume writing, and interview preparation. Ms. Patil provided valuable tips and shared resources that helped her in her professional growth. The session proved to be extremely beneficial and motivating for the students, offering them a clearer perspective on career planning and development.

The event successfully strengthened alumni-student relations and was well-received by both students and faculty members. The department expressed gratitude to Ms. Bhagyashree Patil for her time and valuable insights, and plans to host more such alumni interactions in the future.
